Every academic institution has a special responsibility to provide such support systems that may enable their students to achieve academic excellence as well as find a comfortable placement or a suitable career for their settlement in life given the fierce competition in the job market at all levels. In the context of globalization, the legal profession is taking a multifaceted proportion. The development of online culture and the rise of cyber crime as a result of science, technology, and information management have expanded career prospects and the employability of legal professionals globally in a proportional manner.
